A little bit of history in every bite.

How It All Started

Our story began in 1940, on Hempstead Turnpike in Bethpage, Long Island, which at the time was primarily farmland. It was on a cool fall Saturday in November that our grandfather opened his small retail store selling fresh turkeys to the public. Later he added farm fresh eggs, sweet butter, baked breads and other staples his customers were requesting.

In 1949, our grandfather was the first to offer Rotisserie Chickens cooked over an open flame in barbecue ovens. He was truly a pioneer in retail take out food, expanding his menu to include fresh homemade salads to complement his Rotisserie Chicken. A short time afterwards he added his soon to be famous Southern Fried Chicken and Barbecued Spare Ribs. This turned into a thriving take out business. His menu kept growing as he met his customers’ needs. Before long he had a complete catering menu designed for the holidays. Eventually his customers were using his take home catering service all year long. Our grandparents created recipes and made all the spices for the products that they sold in their retail store. Our Roasting Spices are still made in small batches by hand according to Pop’s original mouthwatering recipes.

As you would imagine, take out meals and catering were very new concepts in the 1950’s and became very popular on Long Island. Some tried to imitate these concepts, but Zorn’s was always number one.

Now over seven decades and four generations later, we are still family owned and operated and have hundreds of freshly made items for our customers to choose from. We still use the same recipes and cooking methods used by Pop. Some are looked upon as old fashioned by today’s standards, such as hand peeling and slicing the potatoes for our Famous Potato Salad and using the same large kettles for our delicious Chicken Noodle Soups and Gravy, but this is how we maintain our high quality and consistency. Our focus continues to be delicious homemade food, generous portions and great service at a fair price.
